Senator Eddy and Mr. Robb of the Belt were accorded the privilege of visiting and inspecting the celebrated Silver King mine, in Pinal County, recently. Under the guidance of the Superintendent, Mr. Phillips, they went down the long shaft, out of the sunlight, and with the water falling like a shower bath over their oilcloth uniforms. They climbed about over timbers, through stopes, along drifts, from level to level, up winzes—everywhere, and found ore all the time. The mine is simply phenomenal. Between the 700 foot level and the surface, there are tons enough of ore to keep the reducing power now working at Pinal for many a year. There is not enough mill capacity. As Mr. Phillips has the mine now, he could extract 500 tons a day from it for an indefinite period. It would be useless work because it could not be reduced. The King mine is to-day, what it has always been, an undetermined quantity. No man knows its limits. The walls that greet the eye of the examiner still glisten with argentiferous galena and polytase and all the known varieties of silver ore; and threads and leaves of the "native" show in all their purity. At present the depth reached, sump and all, is nearly 120 feet. At the 800 foot level a station has been cut. The warm weather and extremely rarified air has had some effect upon the ventilation of the mine, but when Mr. Eddy and myself were in it, it was almost perfectly pure. The Silver King may reach a stage in the near future when dividends shall cease for a time, owing to a decrease in the value of the ore, the progress of development work, and the uselessness of increasing the reduction works under existing circumstances; but it could not long continue, because the honest intention of the management, and the industry and intelligence of the Superintendent will be able to tide them over difficulties. The Silver King mine has only its first chapter written, its grandest has yet to come.

Barbed wire has teeth and is dangerous to come in contact with and so three young ladies the other night on upper Broad St. would have sworn, had they been pressed to clinch their belief in an affidavit, when a small section of it adhered to their skirts keeping neck and neck with them until they passed the score being less blown than the damsels who upon regaining their breath simultaneously ejaculated "rattlesnakes." The car-piercing screams that emanated from them as the harmless thing pursued them could be heard several blocks.

Mr. Robb desires us to acknowledge the receipt of favors from the archaeological Institute of America. They came too late for last week's notice, and he is absent in the East now. Our Junior has devoted considerable attention to Arizona archaeology, as the pages of the Belt will show, and the acknowledgement, on the part of the Institute, is proper and pleasant.

William Hammond, once a resident, if not a native of Beaver County, Pennsylvania, as we are informed, but more recently a resident of Globe, died in Little Round Valley near Reno, A. T., on Wednesday the 25th ult. His remains were interred the following day. Mr. H. was a hard working man, correct in his dealings, and exemplary in other respects.

Don Jose Maria Maril from Rio San Juan, N. M., recovered from Chief Nana's family at San Carlos, yesterday, his lost child, a boy eleven years of age whom he claims was stolen by Nana's band over two years ago in New Mexico. When he recognized the boy, the child at first refused to know him. The father and child started for home last night via Fort Apache.

It is certainly a source of gratification to any newspaper to know that its article is of sufficient interest to entitle them to a reprint and, therefore we will be pardoned for referring to the unusual popularity of the Arizona Silver Belt (Railway) Screen articles which are having an unusual run through the columns of Eastern journals and are reprinted in their entirety. They were written by Donald Robb and may be regarded as multum in parvo, displaying great research and abounding in useful information regarding the climate, pasturage, wealth of timber, minerals etc. in Arizona. Thus it may be regarded that a drop of ink judiciously and intelligently shed makes "millions think," for the reason that it is taken up and extended almost ad infinitum, and returns bearing fruit of its mission. That Arizona will be greatly benefited by the extended publication of these articles we have not a doubt.

Larson was first nabbed, but stoutly asserted his innocence, until it was shown that the evidence against him was convincing, when he broke down, cried like a child, and made a full confession, implicating Chambers. The latter was captured at Prescott. Larson was a blacksmith, and well and favorably known in Phoenix. Chambers was a striker and roust-about for Larson. These men should be severely dealt with inasmuch as they were prepared and resolved to commit murder, if necessary, in order to obtain money.
